"May mercy, peace, and love be multiplied to you." St. Jude 1:1

AUGUST 2022

"Do you want to be free of the passions? It is very simple: exercise control over yourself. But do this as expressing your desire, your longing, and not thinking that you, through your own efforts, are going to overcome your weakness or your ego, or anything else like this. You can't overcome anything. No matter how long a pig rolls around in clean grass, it will always remain a pig. And no matter how long you exercise self-control, you'll always remain a person cast into sins and having every manner of darkness within yourself. Against these things, asceticism by itself does nothing. God Himself must come to free your soul and to remove from it whatever evil and darkness is clouding it."

Elder Aimilianos

Spiritual Life according to St. Maximos the Confessor*,

trans. Fr. Maximos Constas

FROM FATHER'S DESK This month we look at the final stanzas (8 through 11) of St. Ephrem the Syrian's (306-373) hymn thiry-one "On Faith." We are probably most familiar with St. Ephrem because of his prayer we say during the Great Fast but he is also a great theologian-poet. In this hymn St. Ephrem describes how God speaks to humanity by means of images and metaphors in Scripture. Before taking flesh from the Virgin, the Son of God became incarnate in human language, he "put on names" as St. Ephrem writes.

From The Harp of the Spirit – Poems of Saint Ephrem the Syrian translated by Sebastian Brock.

8. His likeness is that of an Old Man, or of a Hero; of Him it is written that He sleeps, or again, that He slumbers not[1] (Psalm 121:3-4);
of Him it is written that He was weary, or again, that He wearies not[2]. (Isaiah 40:28).
By binding and loosing He has helped us and taught us:
in the case of the sapphire brick, He contracted Himself and stood above it[3] (Exodus 24:10), then He extended Himself and filled the heaven, everything being in the palm of His hand[4] (Isaiah 40:12).

Refrain: Blessed is He who has appeared to our human race under so many metaphors.

9. He manifested Himself somewhere, He manifested Himself everywhere;
we imagined He was somewhere, but everything is filled with Him.
He becomes small that He might make us sufficient; He became great in order to enrich us.
He becomes small, and then again great, in order to magnify us.
Had He become small and not become again great, He would have been small and abused by us, because He would have been thought to be weak.
Therefore He became small and then again great.

Refrain: Blessed is He who has appeared to our human race under so many metaphors.

10. Let us wonder at how, when He became small, He made our own small state great.
Had He not reverted and become great,
He would have made our opinion of Him small, imagining Him to be weak – and by thus imagining, our conception (of God) would be diminished.
He is an Essence whose greatness we are not capable of grasping – no, not even in His smallness. He grew great – when we had gone astray;
He grew small – when we had grown feeble. In every way did He labour over us.

Refrain: Blessed is He who has appeared to our human race under so many metaphors.

11. He wished to teach us two things: that He became flesh, yet He did not come into being[5] (John 1:14).
In His love He made for Himself a countenance,
so that His servants might behold Him;
but, lest we be harmed by imagining He was really like this,
He moved from one likeness to another, to teach us that He has no likeness. And though He did not depart from the form of humanity, yet by His changes He did depart.

[1] Psalm 121:3-4 He will not let your foot be moved, he who keeps you will not slumber. Behold, he who keeps Israel will neither slumber nor sleep.
[2] Isaiah 40:28 The LORD is the everlasting God, the Creator of the ends of the earth. He does not faint or grow weary, his understanding is unsearchable.
[3] Exodus 24:9-10 Then Moses and Aaron, Nadab, and Abi'hu, and seventy of the elders of Israel went up, and they saw the God of Israel; and there was under his feet as it were a pavement of sapphire stone, like the very heaven for clearness.
[4] Isaiah 40:12 Who has measured the waters in the hollow of his hand and marked off the heavens with a span, enclosed the dust of the earth in a measure and weighed the mountains in scales and the hills in a balance?
[5] John 1:14 And the Word became flesh and tabernacled among us, full of grace and truth; we have beheld his glory, glory as of the only Son from the Father.

PARISH COUNCIL UPDATE Parish council held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, July 12 at 6:30 pm. The secretary's computer will be updated because of its age and lack of memory which affects its performance. Because of the complications from COVID, Father Matthew has been given the blessing by Archbishop Alexander not to attend the All-American Council in Baltimore July 17-22. Building and grounds - God bless everyone who helped in the outdoor clean-up to spruce up the grounds. Phil Wiles took care of the weeds on the north side. Seam cracks are developing in the asphalt, we will need to buy the seam crack filler and apply it. The courtyard needs new stone, a little larger than the ones we have now (not pea gravel). Air filters in the air handler and air conditioning unit were replaced (16 filters). Trim boards on the garage needs to be caulked, primed, and painted.
The new icon shrine of the Mother of God in the courtyard in memory of Lawrence and Mildred Bladecki will be prepared for installation in August to be blessed on August 21 at the outdoor Liturgy. The icon of St Euphrosynos the Cook, in memory of Aspasia Stathopoulos, will be mounted in a case and installed in the kitchen.
